4. June 2026 Death Claims vs. November 14, 2026 Present-Tense Posts

Setting the June 2026 Facebook claims that Jamie Millard died against the November 14, 2026 posts from @Uncle_C_Hobby highlights a direct contradiction between the June death narrative and @Uncle_C_Hobby speaking of Jamie as alive today:

- June 2026 Fundraiser and Death Claims: On June 11, 2026, a fundraiser for "Jamie Millard" ("TeamFury Jamie") regarding stage 4 pancreatic cancer treatment is shared alongside Ricky Killeen's GoFundMe appeal post, followed on June 25 and June 26, 2026, by posts stating "TeamFury Jamie passed away yesterday in hospital" and "Rest in Peace TeamFury Jamie".
- November 14, 2026 Present-Tense Statements by @Uncle_C_Hobby: Two November 14, 2026 posts from @Uncle_C_Hobby speak of Jamie in present-tense and ongoing terms (They Live in a £750k house; Jamie worked in science for years dick head then had his own business!; Jamie & Mark have let each other be since 2018), indicating he is alive today rather than deceased following the June 2026 claims.
- Circumstantial Significance: The clash between the June 2026 death claims and the November 14, 2026 present-tense statements by @Uncle_C_Hobby underscores that the June death claims are contradicted by the later present-tense posts and supports the view that Millard remains alive.
